1. Claims 1-109 are presented for examination.
2. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. § 121:
  - I. Claims 1-22 drawn to a method for routing media comprising switch particulars (claim 15), listing particulars (claims 3-5), URL (claim 11), and formatting particulars (claim 13), classified in Class 709, subclasses 238 and 246.
  - II. Claims 23-33, drawn to a method for routing media to a viewer including generating in the presentation at least one member of a group comprising a media sequence instruction, a binding media instruction, and a special routing instruction particulars (claim 25); setting the time period between a starting time and an ending time particulars (claim 28); and portal particulars (claim 29), classified in Class 709, subclass 203
  - III. Claims 34-68 drawn to a method for providing media for routing including e-commerce particulars including enabling an entry of a program at a service processor, the program comprising a media reference and a order component particulars (claims 34-39), advertisement particulars (claim 42); age, gender, income, hobby... particulars (claim 44); viewing history and purchasing history particulars (claim 46) and authenticating particulars (claims 61-62), classified in Class 705, subclass 52.
  - IV. Claims 69-109 drawn to a method for processing routing from a resource to a viewer for a request for media comprising monitoring particulars including status (claims 69 and 77), alarm and alert (claims 81-82); collecting event data particulars (claims 74-75), caching (claims 72-73), generating a report (claim 85), classified in Class 709, subclass 224.
3. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I - IV are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention I has separate utility such as it is usable by a method for routing media comprising switch particulars (claim 15), listing particulars (claims 3-5), URL (claim 11), and formatting particulars (claim 13), classified in Class 709, subclasses 238 and 246 which lacked the particulars of groups II-IV. Invention II has separate utility such as a method for routing media to a viewer including generating in the presentation at least one member of a group comprising a media sequence instruction, a binding media instruction, and a special routing instruction particulars (claim 25); setting the time period between a starting time and an ending time particulars (claim 28); and portal particulars (claim 29), classified in Class 709, subclass 203 which lacked the particulars of groups I and III-IV. Invention III has separate utility such as a method for providing media for routing including e-commerce particulars including enabling an entry of a program at a service processor, the program comprising a media reference and a order component particulars (claims 34-39), advertisement particulars (claim 42); age, gender, income, hobby... particulars (claim 44); viewing history and purchasing history particulars (claim 46) and authenticating particulars (claims 61-62), classified in Class 705, subclass 52 which lacked the particulars of groups I-II and IV. Also, invention IV has separate utility such as a method for processing routing from a resource to a viewer for a request for media comprising monitoring particulars including status (claims 69 and 77), alarm and alert (claims 81-82); collecting event data particulars (claims 74-75), caching (claims 72-73), generating a report (claim 85), classified in Class 709, subclass 224 which lacked the particulars of groups I-III. See M.P.E.P. § 806.05(d).

4. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and because the search required for each group is different and not co-extensive for examination purpose because these groups would require different searches on PTO's classification class and subclass e.g.

- a) the Group I search (claims 1-22) would require use of search class 709, subclass 238 (which would not be required for the Groups II-IV);
- b) the Group II search (claims 23-33) would require use of class 709 subclass 203 (which would not be required for the Groups I and III-IV);
- c) the Group III search (claims 34-68) would require use of class 705 subclass 52 (which would not be required for the Groups I-II, and IV); and
- d) the Group IV search (claims 69-109) would require use of class 709 subclass 224 (which would not be required for the Groups I-III). Therefore restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.
